

Carlton Club

An introduction

The Carlton Club is one of London's foremost members-only clubs, situated in a beautiful Georgian clubhouse in exclusive St James's.

The Carlton Club offers you a warm and friendly welcome, in a setting of stylish opulence and splendour. As a member, you benefit from a fine array of facilities, stimulating events and an outstanding international network of reciprocal clubs.

Carlton Club – past and present

The Carlton Club has an inspiring heritage that informs its values and activities to this day.

The present address of 69 St James's Street became the clubhouse after the Pall Mall building was destroyed during the Second World War. Thankfully, many of the Club's most valuable portraits survived and now adorn the clubhouse walls.

Over the years, the clubhouse has been lovingly restored and maintained in a way that is deeply respectful of its heritage. But it has also kept pace with the times, so members now benefit from both the comfort of air conditioning and the convenience of internet and wi-fi access.

Carlton Club – The Conservative club

The club was born in 1832 as a party political organisation, following the massive reform majority in the 1831 general election. A group of Tory MPs met at an address off St James's Square, a meeting point too small for effective party organisation.

On 10 March 1832, a meeting at the Thatched House tavern appointed a committee to take on and manage new premises in Carlton Terrace. The name 'Carlton Club' was adopted a week later.

By 1835 the Club's wealth and standing were such that it moved to specially designed premises on Pall Mall. Membership was a badge of allegiance to the Conservative party.

Today the Club continues to support the Conservative party in many ways and remains The Conservative club.

A wealth of facilities

For Carlton Club members, the clubhouse is a warm and friendly home from home.

Its unique charm and elegance are second to none, combining the style and traditions of yesteryear, with modern facilities and resources.

Whether you would like a quiet coffee in the Morning Room, lunch with friends in the Churchill Room or a private dinner in the Cabinet Room, the Club offers you the sustenance and service you need, and a beautiful and relaxing ambiance. We pride ourselves on the excellence of our food, and the quality of our wine list.

If you wish to stay overnight while you are here, simply book one of our 24 well appointed air-conditioned bedrooms, for a comfortable and peaceful night's sleep.

A club for every occasion

Should you need to meet business colleagues, we are able to arrange small conferences and working lunches – from sandwiches or a cold buffet to a full sit-down meal. You can make use of our business facilities, with high-speed Internet access, state-of-the-art personal computers, printing facilities, fax and post services.

The Carlton Club is also a fitting and memorable location for all your important family celebrations – whether birthdays, anniversaries or weddings. Our stunning Georgian building offers one of the most prestigious venues in the West End. A perfect setting for your special occasion.
